Dear Vendor:

This year, 2004, marks the tenth-year anniversary of the Magnetic Resonance Therapy Program at the Brigham and Women’s Hospital. To mark this very special occasion, we are recognizing the many individuals and industrial partners who, over the past decade, have made invaluable contributions to our program and the field as a whole. As a central aspect of the 5th Interventional MRI Symposium; and in recognition of your contributions to our spectacular success; we would be honored by your presence at our anniversary celebration as well as by your participation in symposium activities. The Symposium is jointly organized by the Radiology Departments at Brigham and Women’s Hospital, Harvard Medical School (Boston, MA,), Universitat Leipzig (Leipzig, Germany), and the University Hospitals of Cleveland, Case Western Reserve University (Cleveland, OH).

The symposium brochure, which includes the course description and course objectives, can be viewed at the web link below. The meeting is endorsed by the International Society of Magnetic Resonance in Medicine (ISMRM). The program features lectures by invited speakers and proffered papers; a poster session; exhibitions by industrial contributors; and a tour and demonstration of the BWH facilities. Symposium participants will present state-of-the-art, novel concepts and discuss clinical impact and future trends and developments in interventional and intra-operative MRI.

In support of this special, two day event, we are seeking contributions of US $5,000* to defray exhibition costs; registration fees are waived for private industry participants who offer the requested support. Table top Exhibits are also available. (minimum $2,500) Alternatively, vendors may choose other means of sponsorship such as support of various faculty receptions or travel/accommodations for invited lecturers. We also seek donations in the form of unrestricted educational grants. (Please contact Dr. Jolesz for sponsorship details at jolesz@bwh.harvard.edu.)
